

Americans to Discuss Cuba's Ransom Terms

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro is prepared to exchange political prisoners in Cuba for what he calls political prisoners in the United States and Central America, Havana radio said today.

Castro also reportedly threatened to call off the bulldozers-for-prisoners negotiations if the United States "persists in referring to it as an exchange."

"This is an indemnification and not an exchange," he reportedly told Prensa Latina, the Cuban news agency.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two leaders of the Cuban Revolutionary Council and 10 representatives of prisoners arrived here today for talks with a U.S. group about Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro's terms for release of over 1,200 prisoners captured in the Cuban invasion failure.

Dr. Jose Mirt Cardona, president of the council, and Manuel Antonio de Varona arrived with the 10, khaki-clad prisoner representatives who were paroled by Castro to undertake these negotiations.

The Cubans went immediately to a meeting with a U.S. citizens group headed by Eleanor Roosevelt, Dr. Milton Eisenhower and Walter Reuther which is seeking to raise the millions of dollars to pay for the 500 tractors demanded by Castro for the exchange of the prisoners.

Miro Cardona, on leaving the plane which brought the Cubans from Miami, Fla., told newsmen he expects cooperation from the U.S. citizens group. He declined most other comment, except that he was here to negotiate.

The arrival here came as Castro was reported to have threatened to have called the negotiations off if the United States persists in referring to the deal as an exchange. Castro termed the arrangements an indemnification, not an exchange.

The U.S. government appeared to be taking a hands-off position in relation to the matter.

State Department press officer Joseph W. Reap said the State Department would not have a representative sitting in on today's talks, and has no plan to contact any member of the visiting group.

The sons of both Miro Cardona and de Varona are among the prisoners held by Castro.

The State Department had said Saturday the government would give "most sympathetic consideration" to granting export licenses if the tractors are purchased by private funds.

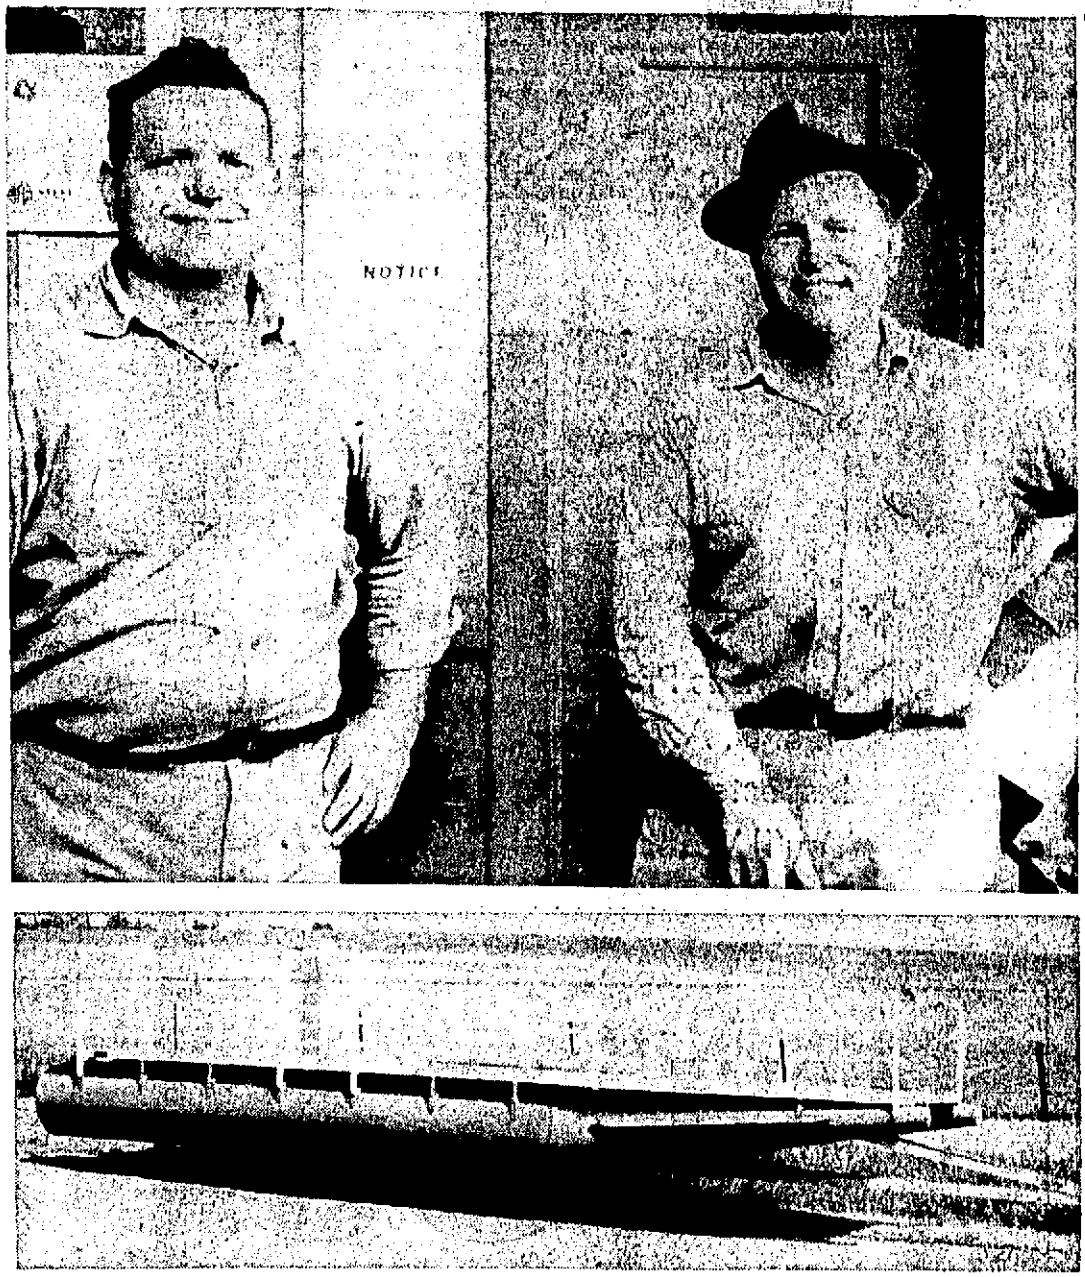

The United States has broken diplomatic relations with Cuba and exports of machinery to Cuba normally are not permitted.

Although Reuther said no funds would be accepted or solicited until after today's meeting, donations and offers of money poured in.

Robert Berrellez, Associated Press correspondent just returned from imprisonment in Cuba, said the offer was "another propaganda trick. It's a form of political blackmail."

Castro ran into sharp criticism from the press in Latin America and scattered Latin American organizations began fund raising drives to help buy the tractors.

Tank & Boat Co., in Third Year, Now Marketing in Eight States

EDITOR'S NOTE: Half of Hope's employed population work in local industry. How these plants are doing to prosper or government state-ments. This is the fifth of a series of Star interviews with industry heads in Hope.

Newest enterprise in the former Southwestern Proving Ground industrial area is the Arkansas Tank & Boat Co., whose most popular product is a line of all-metal fishing barges powered by outboard engines.

Now in its third year Arkansas Tank is building a nation-wide stimp in boats and engines that hit the industry hard all through 1960. But the situation is improving today. The Oakhaven-based plant has steadily increased its market coverage until today it is distributing throughout eight states. The range is from Jefferson City, Mo., on the north, to Port Isabel, Texas, on the south.

The Star's editor had trouble setting up an interview last week with the two partners in Arkansas Tank because it's a working partnership and seldom are the two men in the office at the same time, at least one of them being out on the road selling and setting up dealerships.

The partners are Eugene Shuster, originally from Monmouth, Ill., and Marvin Saska, native of Owosso, Mich., but who came to Hope from California.

The men told the editor they are turning out from three to four barges a week, and they employ eight people.

Their main line consists of three barges, all with twin metal pontoons. The smallest has an 8 by 16-foot deck, capacity 1,500 pounds, priced at $746.50. The middle number of the line has an 8 by 20-foot deck, capacity 2,000 pounds, priced at $886.50. The top number has a deck 8 by 24 feet, capacity 2,500 pounds, and is priced at $1,050.00.

They may be powered with any medium or large outboard engine. An upward slant at the front end of the pontoons, combined with a water-foil lifts the barge the way a fast boat planes, and gives it considerable speed. Optional equipment includes convertible or hardtop canopies and styrofoam flotation packages for extra heavy load requirements.

Split Reported Among Korean Military Men

By GENE KRAMER

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—A split was reported in South Korea's new military government today over the division of power among the military services.

A competent source said marines and paratroopers who took over Seoul last Tuesday and were the shoe ktroops o filbe coup refused an order Saturday to withdraw from the Capitol building and return to their camps outside Seoul.

The marines and paratroopers reportedly demanded more places in the 30 member revolutionary council, which except for a marine brigadier general and colonel consists entirely of army officers. There is also a marine colonel in the cabinet of 15 officers that was sworn in Sunday.

U. S. Gen. Carter B. Magruder, under whose U. N. command all South Korean forces are placed, reportedly demanded Saturday that all the 3,600 troops used in the coup return to their original stations.

The order to move out was issued by Lt. Gen. Chang Do-young, the junta chief who also is premier, defense minister and army chief of staff.

Although the marines and paratroopers furnished the troops for the coup, the composition of the revolutionary council and the cabinet reflected the relative strength of South Korea's armed forces. Unofficial estimates put the army at 500,000 men, including 3,000 paratroopers, the marines and air force at 15,000 each and the navy 10,000.

Despite the reported rift, the new military regime pressed ahead vigorously.

Foreign Minister Kim Hong-il, a retired lieutenant general, said Gen. Chang sent a letter to President Kennedy May 17, the day after the uprising against the government of deposed Premier John M. Chang broke out.

Kim said the contents of the letter would not be disclosed until the White House acknowledged its receipt. But Chang presumably asked the President to support the new anti-Communist, pro-Western regime.

U. S. Charge d'Affaires Marshall Green and Gen. Magruder both publicly opposed the overthrow of Chang's elected government, and the embassy has not had direct contact with the junta since the coup.

The government announced 2,014 suspected political opponents have been arrested.

Two thousand Seoul citizens who violated the 11 p.m. curfew were detained overnight in the Municipal Theater.

About 5,000 uniformed high school students paraded in downtown Seoul in support of the military revolution. As the parade ended, Gen. Chang went on the radio to order a halt to such demonstrations.

200 More Marshals Sent Into Race-Torn Montgomery, Ala.

Martial Rule Brings Lull in Rioting

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Eight hundred National Guardsmen and 200 federal marshals held this "Cradle of the Confederacy" in a tight grip today to prevent further racial violence. prevent further racial violence.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said in Washington that he planned to send another 200 marshals to the Alabama capital because he said Alabama is a large state and the Justice Department wants to be sure enough marshals are there.

Order was restored early today but only after steel-helmeted guardsmen dispersed an angry mob of white persons who had laid siege to a Negro church where an integration meeting was being held.

Guardsmen escorted many of the Negroes to their homes in the predawn hours after order was restored. The others slipped out of the church quietly and drove away.

Police arrested 16 white persons in connection with the violence. No charges were filed, however, and all were released.

Sporadic outbursts of trouble, including two house burning attempts, had continued for hours after steel-helmeted soldiers with fixed bayonets took command.

An estimated 1,000 Negro worshippers returned home quietly in the predawn hours after spending most of the night in a church auditorium in protective custody. A mob had tried to get at them, but by 5 a.m. the church area was deserted except for 25 National Guardsmen left on guard duty.

"We don't anticipate any further trouble here," said a National Guard officer.

Among the churchgoers were 18 of the freedom bus riders whose arrival in Montgomery Saturday touched off repeated attacks by club swinging white men and women. The so-called "freedom riders" were testing Alabama's bus segregation laws.

Only Negroes remained in the bus-riding group after the lone white man among them was savagely beaten and sent to a hospital and two white girls, also mauled by the surging mob Saturday morning, were sent home by train.

In all, some 20 victims were clubbed and smashed to the ground with fists in two hours of rioting near the Greyhound bus station.

After 18 hours of a jittery quiet, another screaming, brick-throwing mob struck Sunday night against the Negroes jam-packed into a church to greet the "freedom riders" and hear the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. condemn the city for what he called Hitler-like barbarism.

It was the Sunday night uprising which provoked Gov. John M. Patterson to proclaim "qualified martial rule" and give troops under Adj. Gen. Henry V. Graham sweeping powers to take what he wanted.

Figures 700 Needed to Keep Peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said today 200 additional U.S. marshals are being sent to strife-torn Montgomery, Ala. This will bring the number there to between 600 and 700.

Kennedy said many of the marshals now there have been up for 48 hours, that Alabama is a large state, and that the Justice Department wants to be sure enough marshals are there.

Kennedy made his announcement to a crowded news conference.

When a reporter asked the specific reason for sending more marshals, Kennedy replied, "Obviously we're not satisfied with the situation or we wouldn't be sending more."

The federal government is reported determined to use any means available — including a move-in of Army regulars if necessary to maintain order in Montgomery.

Alabama Gov. John Patterson has declared martial law in the area.

Kennedy said the new marshals would be immigration service men from across the country who were being deputized.

He added that the marshals would stay in Montgomery "until we receive assurances by action that the situation is under control in the State of Alabama."

He said he hoped the situation would straighten out.

Kennedy also said, in response to a question, that he would think "without any question you would have had a major bloodbath in Montgomery" Sunday night if it hadn't been for the U.S. Marshals there.

He said he had been told that when the trouble started and when a mob started against the church where a Negro mass meeting was taking place, there was only a group of marshals around the church.

He said he talked with Gov. Patterson about that time and also with city officials and told them they better take some action or there would be bloodshed.

The governor called out a detachment of state National Guardsmen late Sunday night after a week of violent mob action

A Long Climb to the Toast of Broadway

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Sometimes you have to make a lot of lonely bread to become the toast of Broadway.

It was that way with composer Charles Strouse, 32, and lyricist Lee Adams, 34.

Both were comparatively unknown to the public the night of April 14 last year when their smash musical hit, "Bye Bye Birdie" opened. The next morning they were being hailed as the nation's newest and youngest top song-writing team.

The big money began to flood around them in a green tide—and it's still rolling in.

But both Charley and Lee—each of whom will earn $100,000 or more this year—grinace to them at the idea success came to write as an overnight blip from the blue. "We've been slaving hard since we first met at a party 12 years ago," said Lee.

He was a hard-up young radio writer. Charley was a hard-up young classical composer.

Working in their spare hours together, the two turned out scores of songs and sketches for revues and supper club singers. For three summers they put on shows at a resort hotel for room and board

Fails to See What Good Visits Doing

By JAMES MARLOW
As-Created Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson is now doing for President Kennedy what former Vice President Richard M. Nixon used to do for President Eisenhower.

He's traveling abroad, meeting with the heads of foreign governments, giving them the word from Kennedy, and then coming home to report to the President.

These goodwill missions may have some psychological benefit in boosting the ego and self-confidence of people in smaller countries by showing the United States is sufficiently concerned about them to send the No. 2 man over.

But any practical effect from either the Johnson or Nixon journeys—with one notable exception in Nixon's case—is hard to see.

The mistreatment heaped on Nixon in South America shocked the United States into painful realization that not all Latin Americans loved us and that this country was going to have to go some to keep them on the side of the United States.

Nor is it clear why anything Nixon or Johnson may have had to say to the head of a foreign government couldn't have been said just as well by the local American ambassador who could have delivered a message from Kennedy too.

The policy toward every other country is made here in Washington—not on the scene by a visitor, even one as important as Johnson—on information from the American ambassador there, his aide, other advisers, and the Central Intelligence Agency.

Johnson might have been of more practical value to Kennedy if he had remained in Washington and helped get the administration's programs through Congress, where he is an expert. He is an amateur in foreign dealings.

Nevertheless, more and more since World War II it has become a kind of stylish habit to send presidential representatives overseas, to single countries on special missions, or just abroad generally on so-called goodwill trips.

From the very beginning of Johnson's trip the main question has not been what Johnson might say, since he's only the President's special messenger, but what Kennedy might say through him.

If Kennedy has really said anything new, it hasn't been made public. For instance, it seems generally accepted the United States, no matter what happens, will not send U.S. forces directly into Laos.

That country, already more than half lost to Communism, probably will be swallowed up by it eventually, even though Laos is the key to other Southeast Asian nations which are either neutral or tied to the United States.

But the next critical area is South Viet Nam, which has received both military and economic aid from this country. Communist guerrillas are tormenting the government there.

These guerrilla pushes appear to be only preliminaries, a feeling-out foray before larger pressure is applied. If South Viet Nam goes, then all Southeast Asia is truly in danger.

The other countries there, so close to mammoth Red China, can hardly be expected to stand up against Communist pressure if the United States declines to intervene directly in South Viet Nam in the event the situation there gets critical.

So—the question was: Will Johnson tell President Ngo Dinh Diem not to worry, that the United States will jump in with army and air force if they're needed?

A communique was issued after Johnson's visit. It spoke of and a salary of $200 each for a 12-week season.

It all added up to a lot of hard work, a lot of fine experience—but not much cash and no fame.

"Just four years ago I was still shining shoes—my own," quipped Lee.

It was in 1958 that the two first stepped on the springboard that bounced them to success.

Veteran stage manager Edward Padula had a big idea—why not produce a happy musical about American teen-agers who weren't gang members or delinquents? He had another big idea: The show should be the product of young talent.

Padula picked Strouse and Adams after trying out 15 other song-writing teams. He paid them $50 a month each out of his own limited funds to turn out his songs.

Two years and 80 auditions later the trio had raised the $300,000 necessary to put on "Bye Bye Birdie" and the 55 songsmiths had hammered out two tunes—17 of which were used in the show.

Now royalties from recordings, the original Broadway production, and two touring companies—plus an $850,000 sale of the movie rights—have put Strouse and Adams on Easy Street for some time to come.

Prince Takes Peacemaker Role for Laos

By JOHN BAUSMAN

GENEVA (AP)—Prince Norodom Sihanouk, Cambodian chief of state, today pursued the role of peacemaker for Laos and invited the three rival Laotian princes to negotiate in Geneva for a coalition government.

Sihanouk issued the invitations through the separate Laotian delegations sent to the 14-nation conference that opened last week to pacify and neutralize the strife-plagued country of Southeast Asia.

The three princes involved are Boun Oum, recognized by the West and Laotian King Savang Vathana as premier; Prince Souvanna Phouma, so-called neutralist leader recognized as the legal premier by the Soviet bloc, and Prince Souphannouvong, head of the Communist-dominated Pathet Lao forces.

Efforts to get the three Laotian factions to combine into one coalition government were begun several days ago in Laos itself in talks behind the Pathet Lao lines. These negotiations, in the village of Ban Namone, have stalled.

The Cambodian prince and a number of other delegates at the conference regard a coalition government as essential for any long-range settlement of Laotian problems.

The Geneva conference resumes this afternoon amid persistent reports that Boun Oum's government soon might order its delegate in Geneva to join in the parley.

BY DORIAN FALK

GENEVA (AP)—The perennial dispute between the West and the Soviet Union on the issue of controls to enforce international agreements is expected to throw its long shadow over the meeting between President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev.

Western diplomats in Geneva feel that this stumbling block of virtually all East-West negotiations since World War II may well be a central theme of the Kennedy-Khrushchev talks in Vienna next month.

The Western idea that in the absence of mutual confidence, East and West must provide for safeguards to prevent violations of agreements, has dominated all attempts to end the cold war.

The issue of controls has prevented progress in 13 years of disarmament negotiations. It has slowed down the three-power test ban talks here. It cropped up again at the start of the conference in Laos.

any agreement between the two camps is vital to Western security. Communist leaders contend that the Western governments will use international control machinery as a front for legalized spying on the Communist countries.

Arthur H. Dean, the U.S. delegate to the three-power nuclear test ban talks, returned to Washington Sunday to report to President Kennedy on the Soviet intransigence on the issue of test ban controls.

Before his departure, Dean again criticized the new Soviet demand for a veto over the day-to-day operation of the proposed test ban control system.

answer from Premier Khrushchev on the issue of international control and inspection. They expect the President to sound out Khrushchev on whether there is any chance the Kremlin will ever agree to the Western concept of veto-free controls.

The court ruled on a Justice Department appeal from a decision by U.S. Dist. Judge Walter J. La Buy in Chicago. La Buy found Du Pont's surrender of its voting power in GM would be sufficient to meet the antitrust laws.

The Justice Department appeal insisted Du Pont should be required to dispose outright of its 63 million shares of stock in GM. The shares are valued at more than $2.5 billion.

Justice Brennan delivered the court's majority opinion. Justice Frankfurter wrote a dissenting opinion which Justices Whitaker and Stewart joined.

Justice Clark and Harlan took no part in the case. Thus the vote was 4-3.

resulting from attempts by white and Negro students from out-of-state to break racial segregation on interstate passenger buses.

Patterson acted as a howling mob attempted to close in on a Negro church in which Negro integration leaders had gathered to discuss future policy on the so-called "freedom riders" movement.

The mob was held back by local authorities and some of the 500 U. S. marshals and special federal deputies which Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy started sending into the Montgomery area Saturday.

A high government source said it was obvious the federal government had to end the racial violence and had embarked on a course in that direction from which there could be no turning back. This, he said, meant the use of troops if it came to that point.

For the second straight night, the attorney general remained at his desk with a line open to Montgomery to keep in touch with developments. He made frequent reports to his brother, President John F. Kennedy, spending the weekend at his country home in Middleburg, Va.

Patterson Sunday afternoon protested by wire to the attorney general that the federal marshals were not needed and not wanted. The governor said state authorities could take care of the situation.

Kennedy's reply was "the United States government needs assurance by action—not words—that its citizens will be safe in the state of Alabama."

The governor previously had protested bitterly against U. S. Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy's order to rush more than 500 armed U. S. marshals and deputies to Montgomery to prevent further interference with the bus riders. In a tense, face-to-face meeting with Kennedy's top assistant, Byron R. White, the state's chief executive threatened to jail federal officers who sought to exert their authority in the absence of a request for federal help.

Equal Rights for Wives?

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: My husband is a know-it-all and, though a civil engineer earning a good salary, gives me a pittance to run the house, buy food for seven (three are four of us; he eats enough for three) and clothe me and our two children.

He pays cash for his clothes. I do all my own work even when ill, cut grass and garden. I haven't had a new winter coat since the one Mother gave me when I married.

My husband puts his money in tools, stocks and real estate—and borrows to do it; so he's always paying off loans. Now he is building a bed for our three-year-old girl and intends to put a $12.95 cotage mattress on it. That does it for me! Hoping for some help.

Dear Hopeless: Your letter is typical of hundreds I receive from wives who are in what approximates a state of penial poverty to keep their wives money-hungry. A pitiful aspect of this sorry situation is that the wife, like you, who scripps and saves the most, gets the least.

To a great extent these wives, by meekly submitting to an unjust condition, are as much at fault as their husbands.

You should have insisted upon being given a definite sum each week for family expenses—the amount to be governed by your husband's income. Request this now and back it up with an itemized statement of the week's expenses. Circle in red any deficit such as clothes for you and the children and pin money for yourself. Keep the accounting impersonal. Also keep your temper. Men are more impressed by statistics than a hysterical. This would be doubly true of your husband, whose very profession is based on mathematical calculations.

Let your figures tell the story. If they don't bring results, stop all housework until the matter is adjusted. A desperate situation calls for desperate measures.

Dear Helen: I'm pretty, get good marks, don't wear tight clothes nor much make-up, do not swear or curse, dance well and am not cutty yet my popularity rating is very poor and I have only three real friends. Yesterday I went near a group of classmates and they all started calling me "creep."

It has been like this ever since I entered the school last September. I'll be glad when June comes and school closes. Do they treat me so because I am new? Or differently? The other girls swear, get poor marks, wear tight clothes and are cutty. I am friendly with everyone—particularly boys. They like me. Why can't my classmates like me too? —Faithful Reader

Dear Faithful Reader: You are paying the penalty of being different, pretty and popular with the boys. No wonder the other girls gang up on you. It's the most sincere compliment they

Opponents See Bonds as a Threat

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Opponents of a proposed $60 million state construction bond issue have lashed out at the plan—charging that among other things it threatens the public schools could result in a tax increase and that its cost would be closer to $90 million than the listed figure.

The charges came Saturday as an opposition campaign formally got under way.

Eugene Warren of Little Rock attorney for the Arkansas Education Association, declared that the general public has no conception of what the bond money would be spent for. He said:

"They will be at the mercy of a highly centralized, intensive political campaign... (in which) it will be impossible to present to the people the true facts..."

Although approved by the 1961 Arkansas Legislature, the bond issue must be voted on by Arkansas residents at an as yet unscheduled special referendum.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus must call the special election.

The bulk of the money from the bond issue would go to the University of Arkansas, the seven state-supported colleges, State Hospital and the Arkansas Children's Colony.

Warren said interest and other costs during the 20-year life of the proposed bond issue would raise the total figure to close to $90 million. The issue would be financed by tighter use tax laws and income from an extension of the racing season at Hot Springs' Oaklawn Park.

"We don't want our public schools tied in with gambling," Warren declared. "If there are any ministers who hesitate to oppose this bond issue, bring that home to them."

Hopes Talks Will Prove Beneficial

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today expressed hope that his conference with Soviet Premier Khrushchev next month will lead to a better understanding between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Kennedy stated that hope to a group of Soviet editors with whom he chatted at the White House.

Andrew T. Haller, assistant White House secretary, told reporters that Kennedy informed the Soviet journalists he is "hopefully looking forward" to the face-to-face meeting with Khrushchev in Vienna June 3-4.

Twelve Soviet editors, nearing the end of a tour of the country, called on Kennedy. Two Washington reporters for Tass, the Soviet news agency, joined them, but no U.S. newsmen were admitted.

Judgment of $15,000 Is Affirmed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court today affirmed a $15,000 judgment against the Ford Motor Co. for injuries in an accident allegedly caused by faulty brakes.

A Saline Circuit Court jury made the award to Charlie Fish, 52, of Bradley, a refugee keeper for the Arkansas Game and Fish Commission in Lafayette County. Fish testified that the right front brake of his Ford truck, which he had bought only five days before, locked and pulled the vehicle off the road.

This was the second time the case had been before the Supreme Court. The first time reversed a $12,000 judgment to Fish because of improper testimony.

The Supreme Court affirmed Craighead Circuit Court in a workmen's compensation case involving the S. & S. Department Store and Ruth Dacus, widow of Charles Nolan Dacus.

The circuit court had upheld an award of 5 percent disability to Dacus, who died in 1959, for an injury suffered while working for S. & S. in 1958.

Ouachita Circuit Court was reversed in a case in which it affirmed a Workmen's Compensation Commission ruling that Joe Johnson was not entitled to an award for injuries suffered in a truck accident while an employee of the Bear Brand Roofing Co., Inc. The case was remanded with instructions to grant compensation.

that he requested.

Most politicians credit Kennedy with smart tactics in not becoming personally involved in a measure around which has blown up a storm over proposals for parochial school loans and grants. Kennedy has labeled such loan and grants unconstitutional, but the bishops of his own Roman Catholic Church contend legal-ly could be furnished for the teaching of non-secular subjects in church and private schools.

Fulbright in Praise of Mr. Kennedy

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., paints a picture not entirely glowing but definitely optimistic of President Kennedy's first four months in office.

The senator told the Arkansas Junior Chamber of Commerce at its convention Saturday night that the failure of the Cuban invasion had been a tremendous setback to American foreign policy. But he added that the President will "force tomorrow's success out of yesterday's failure."

He said the Cuban situation "provided our leaders with a painful lesson in discom, patience and restraint."

Fulbright said Kennedy has shown "a real grasp of the great issues that confront us, both foreign and domestic."

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Relations Committee, praised the President's stepped up Latin American aid program, the depressed areas bill and the proposed school aid measure.

He said the administration has made needed changes in domestic policy and declared he can already detect a vast difference in the attitude of federal agency and department heads toward Arkansas problems.

"The Agriculture Department has been more sympathetic," he said. "The Small Business Administration has promptly responded to assist Arkansas areas which have suffered from disasters. Urban renewal has been accelerated."

He said the State Department has been very cooperative in helping Arkansas to expand its overseas markets for agricultural products and in the disposition of surplus commodities under the Food for Peace program.

The senator said that in four months, Kennedy "has made an impressive start" toward delivering on his promise to get the nation moving again.

"There is a new atmosphere of movement and activity in Washington," he said, "and I believe that it is beginning to spread through the country." He said Americans are responding to the President's challenge and asking what they can do for their country.

Bombing Rewards Are Distributed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Little Rock Chamber of Commerce which offered rewards totaling $27,500 for the arrest and conviction of persons responsible for two bombing incidents here, disclosed Saturday that the rewards had been disbursed in full but declined to identify the recipients or the amounts they received. A $25,000 reward offered in connection with the city's 1959 Labor Day bombings was shared by 10 persons. An undisclosed number of persons shared in a $2,500 reward posted after a 1960 dynamite blast at the home of a Negro student at the city's integrated Central High School.

Bank Official's Wife Succumbs

TEXARKANA, Tex. (AP)—Mrs. S. H. Vance, 79, wife of the vice chairman of the State National Bank board died Saturday. Funeral services will be at 3 p. m. today at First Baptist Church, of which she had been a member for 18 years. Survivors include a son, Texas District Judge Robert S. Vance of Texarkana; a sister, Mrs. Ethel Miller of Shreveport, La.; four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Production Gives Edge in Cold War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman told Congress today high farm productivity gives the United States an advantage in the cold war which this nation must exploit to the fullest in helping others.

To do this, he said, Congress will have to extend the food-for-peace program and provide ample funds.

In testimony prepared for a hearing of the House Agriculture Committee, Freeman called for enactment of such legislation as a part of the administration's omnibus farm bill. He said this would permit "sound and effective use of the nation's abundance through a long-term, aggressive and positive program in the interest of peace and freedom."

Under this program, the United States sells farm products to friendly countries for their own currencies, part of which is used to help economic development in those countries.

Records Set in School Track Meet

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The 1961 high school track season is ended, but it apparently was only a flashy beginning for a swift young sophomore sprinter from Little Rock Central.
Mike Hoffman, who set a record, tied another, and led the tiger 880 relay team to a record in the fourth annual Meet of Champions Saturday night, may develop into one of the greatest dash men Arkansas high school have produced.
He tied the 100 mark of 10.1 and set a 22.2 record in the 220, then ran anchor on the relay team that was clocked in a record 1:28.8, better than the overall state record of 1:29.5. His 22.2 in the 220 is the fastest time ever run around a curve in Arkansas.
He was the only double winner in the meet, unless you count Central's Fred Rath, who won the low hurdles in 20.1 and tied for first in the high jump at 6-2 with Ronnie Horn of Atkins.
It was a sparkling finish for the group of champions. Five records were set and two were tied. Central won six events and tied for first in a seventh. Team totals are not kept in the Meet of Champions.
State records cannot be set, but a move is underway to make the meet official in the record books. At present, records can only be established in state Class B, A, AA and AAA meets. The top two finishers in each event in those meets qualify for the Meet of Champions.
Central set a mile relay record of 3:26.5. Nathan Myers of Brinkley tossed the discus a record 151.1/2. Crossett's 440-yard relay team was timed in 43.5, which tied the record.
Jerry Huffine of Paragould won the mile in 4:37.5. Victory Harville of Texarkana won the high hurdles in 14.9. Louis Besancon of Bryant won the broad jump with 22-4.
Barney Phillips of Paris won the 440-yard dash in 50.1 and Donnie Switzer of Crossett won the shot put with 51-10/2.
Darrell Ward of Central and Corky Corkern of Grossett pole vaulted 12-8 to set a new meet mark and tie for honors. Central's Clyde Cook won the 880 in 2:00.1, which bettered the state record but not the meet mark of 1:59.4.

Ex-Lawmaker of Smackover Is Killed

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A former state representative and Smackover mayor died Saturday night when his car crashed head-on into another on U.S. Highway 67 about two miles north of Arkadelphia.
The death of William R. McHane Sr., 72, brought to 12 the number of violent deaths in Arkansas in the week ended at midnight Sunday.
Five were killed in traffic accidents, two drowned, three were electrocuted, one was shot to death and one died of exposure.
McHane, who has practiced law in Smackover for a number of years, was Union County representative in 1940 and 1941 and Smackover mayor from 1927 to 1939.
Mrs. Lou Pruett, 77, of near Mount Vernon, died in a Searcy hospital Saturday. She was found entangled in a barbed wire fence near her home after having been missing for a week. Death was due to exposure.
A car crashed into a Kansas City Southern freight train at a railroad crossing on state Highway 41 near De Queen Sunday, killing Marvin R. Cobb, 17, of Horatio.
Sammy Lewis, 15, a Negro of Little Rock, drowned in a water-filled excavation pit near Little Rock Sunday. He was swimming with two companions when he suddenly shouted that he was tired,

Faubus Asks Withdrawal of Marshals

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus asked the Arkansas congressional delegation by telegram today to join with Alabama congressmen in demanding that extra federal marshals be withdrawn from racially-torn Montgomery.

In another telegram, Faubus criticized Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy for sending the marshals to Alabama. He said Kennedy aides may have been partly responsible for the situation. And in a third telegram he offered sympathy to Alabama Gov. John Patterson.

Faubus said the Montgomery situation was "brought about by outside agitators and provocateurs as was the case in Little Rock in 1957."

That was the year Faubus used National Guardsmen to prevent Negro children from attending Central High School here, and former President Eisenhower later used troops to carry out the court-ordered integration.

Kennedy sent federal marshals to Montgomery after white rioters beat members of a traveling biracial sit-in group called the Freedom Riders. Patterson countered by putting the Montgomery area under martial law.

Faubus' telegrams were inspired, he said, by a telegram he received Sunday from Kennedy. He declined to release the text of the Kennedy telegram but said it appeared to be "a sort of explanation" for the attorney general's action in Alabama.

In his telegram to the Arkansas delegation, Faubus said, "I urge you to join with the Congressional delegation of Alabama in demanding that armed federal forces be withdrawn from their state. Then the provocateurs and agitators will go home, and peace and order will prevail in Alabama, as it did before their entry into the state."

Faubus told Kennedy Sunday's telegram "indicates clearly that your office not only encouraged but perhaps assisted in instigating the group of agitators and provocateurs misnamed the Freedom Riders to go into Alabama. This is a horrible mistake. Travelers on journeys of legitimate business should have every protection, but provocateurs on journeys of this nature should not be encouraged."

The telegram to Patterson said in part, "I know that neither you nor the people of Alabama are responsible for the trouble that has been brought about by outside agitators and provocateurs as was the case in Little Rock in 1957."

"In the light of events in Alabama and some time ago in Florida and Louisiana," Faubus told a news conference at which he released the telegrams, "it appears my action in Little Rock in 1957 resulted in better control of the situation and less disorder and violence than has ensued in these other areas."

"This is a peculiar situation," Faubus said. "We're supposed to be fighting the Communists. Now we're sending federal forces into a sovereign state to protect ventures that are Communist instigated and it appears we are going to send 500 bulldozers to Cuba to assist the Communists there. To me, that is a rather peculiar and ineffectual way to oppose Communism."

The Cuba reference was to Premier Fidel Castro's offer to exchange prisoners captured in a recent invasion attempt for American machinery. This country has declined comment on the Castro offer.

Faubus declined to say whether Patterson has contacted him about the Alabama situation.

U. S. Orders Bomb Charge Be Dropped

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A state charge against Emmett E. Miller, who had been accused of trying to dynamite a dormitory at Philander Smith College for Negroes here last July, was dropped today at the request of the federal government.

The government refused to produce FBI agents as witnesses for the trial, which had been scheduled to open today.

Instead, U.S. Atty. Osro Cobb asked Circuit Judge William J. Kirby to dismiss the charge because the FBI could not "run the risk of possible exposure of its effective investigative technique and operational procedures."

Prime witnesses in the case were FBI personnel.
Kirby empaneled a jury and ordered it to return a verdict of innocent "at the direction of the court by request of the Justice Department."

Ships still carry from one to three Morse code radio operators, and went under.
A fire department rescue squad failed to find the body.

TAKE THAT!—Vince Martinez whacks Miguel Agüero on the whiskers with a right hand punch at the St. Nicholas Arena in New York. It had no effect, although Martinez was given an unpopular split 10-round decision over the Argentine middleweight. Spectators tossed debris into ring.

TO HAVE AND TO KILL

CHAPTER XXI
As Max had said, they were all on the terrace. I stood beside Max, waiting for everyone to notice us, and then I said in a low voice, "I have a little chore to do. See you later," and I left him and crossed the terrace, ignoring them all, even Sandy, who was still sitting beside Dixie McQueen.

I climbed the short flight of steps leading to the bluff above the beach and walked slowly along the path by the hedge, making a big show of peering at the ground all around me. I was certain that my actions were observed by all. Presently the terrace was out of sight and I stood on the bluff with the lake on my left and a heavily wooded area on my right. I did not really expect to find the gun, because Griffiths' men had combed the area. I only wanted it to appear that I was searching for it—for the benefit of one of the persons back on the terrace.

Behind me I heard a "Yip, yip," and turned to see the little brown dog, my friend of the early morning, trotting toward me from the woods. He came up to me, wagging his stubby tail. I knelt, scratched his ears, picked up a nearby stick, a broken pine branch and tossed it toward the woods. The dog bounded away, retrieved the stick, scurried back, deposited it at my feet and looked up at me for praise.

I said, "Good boy," and tossed the stick again. It fell 20 feet from the path beneath a small evergreen in a pile of dried leaves. The dog pawed at the leaves, pawed deeper, barked excitedly, grasped something between his teeth and carried it to me. It was not the stick, but neither was it a gun. It was simply a very old steak bone. For a second I had been excited, too. It could have been the gun.

The little dog followed me happily, still carrying the bone in his teeth as I walked back toward the house. I stopped and said gruffly, "Get."

He looked hurt, but he got. I watched until he'd disappeared into the woods with his treasure and then I continued along the path to the house and stepped down to the terrace. Max was standing at the parapet beside his mother. Neither turned at my approach. Cecil was behind a portable bar serving pre-luncheon drinks. His only customer at the moment was Julius Stockmaster. William Darmody stood nearby, a glass in his hand anxiously watching Stockmaster. Sandy, in a chair beside Dixie McQueen, was holding a cocktail glass containing what appeared to be a martini. Dixie sat with her hands clasped before her and looked at me a subdued. Sandy winked at me a I winked back. Mrs. Daney a Max turned away from the par and regarded me witho speaking. No one spoke. It was as if they were all waiting for me to return.

I moved over to the bar. Stockmaster, turning away with a glass in his hand, stumbled against me. "Pam me," he mumbled. I lurched away, never spilling a drop of his drink, and sank in a deck chair. William Darmody standing alone in his silent world nodded at me, moved away a sat in a chair close to Stockmaster. Cecil spoke to me with elaborate politeness. "What would you like, sir?"

I surveyed the bar. "Bourbon, my good man."

"Very good, sir." Cecil built drink and handed it to me. "A little more bourbon, please. He nodded gravely and fill my glass to the brim. I took long swallows.

Then, like a master of ceremonies at a charity drive kick off dinner, I said, "Ladies and gentlemen, may I have your attention, please?"

Even Julius Stockmaster stirred, opened his eyes and regarded me. Cecil watched quietly from behind the bar and Sandy looked at me with a puzzled expression. I really should have taken him into my confidence but I had no had an opportunity. Dixie McQueen, her lips slightly parted, stared at me dumbly. Although William Darmody had not said a word, he had seen me speak and had his polite attention. Max Day moved to the bar. His mother's expression was one of frank surprise and curiosity.

I said, "At the request of Sergeant Griffiths I must perform an unpleasant duty. It is particularly unpleasant since all of us have had a trying day following this tragic occurrence this morning. Nevertheless, I must tell you the for the present no one is to leave here for any reason, unless permission is given by Sergeant Griffiths. Also, beginning at two o'clock this afternoon each of you will be fingerprinted and tests will be made to determine if any of you of us—has fired a gun recently. This is routine police procedure, and I hope you all will cooperate. I refuse to submit to it. It is my house." Mrs. Daney's voice was cold and her eyes were cold.

Dodgers Win 3rd Straight From Giants

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers won their third straight from San Francisco Sunday, 3-2, and moved into a virtual first place tie with the Giants in the National League pennant race.

St. Louis, led by Stan Musial, who drove in five runs with a home run, double and single, snapped a six-game losing streak, sweeping a pair from Chicago 6-3 and 3-0.

Pittsburgh watched Philadelphia score nine runs in the third inning, then came back to defeat the Phillies 13-11, as Don Hoak drove in five runs, the last two with a bases-loaded single in the ninth.

Cincinnati nipped Milwaukee 7-6 on pinch hitter Gus Bell's ninth inning double, then lost the second game 3-2 when Vada Pinson was nipped at the plate in the ninth inning.

The American League, Cleveland swept a doubleheader from defeated Kansas City 5-3 with rain postponing the second game. New York and Baltimore split, the Yankees winning the first 4-2 and the Orioles taking the second 3-2. Chicago and Boston also divided a pair, the White Sox winning the first 6-5 in 10 innings and the Red Sox winning the second 4-1. Washington took two from Los Angeles 6-2 and 7-2.

A home crowd of 41,495 saw the Giants drop their third straight one-run decision to the Dodgers. Sandy Koufax held the Giants to four hits for his fourth victory. Los Angeles got only seven off loser Billy Loos but two of them were home runs—by Johnny Roseboro and Jim Gilliam—accounting for all the runs in the fifth.

The Phillies scored nine runs in the third but the Pirates struck back, finally tying the score 9-9 on Don Hoak's three-run homer in the sixth. It was 11-11 in the ninth when Hoak singled with the bases loaded to drive in the winning runs. Pittsburgh used seven pitchers and the Phils made five errors to give the Pirates seven unearned runs.

Henry Aaron slammed a two-run homer, his sixth of the season, to give the Braves their split with Cincinnati. The Reds won the opener in the ninth when Eddie Kasko singled and scored on a double by pinch hitter Gus Bell. Cincinnati almost pulled out the second game in the ninth. They made it 3-2 on Gene Freese's homer to knock out starter Carl Willey.

Relief pitcher Claude Raymond yielded singles to Vada Pinson and Frank Robinson but Pinson was nipped at the plate.

Travelers, Nashville Split Pair

By ROSS M. Hagen
Associated Press Sports Writer

Southern Association pitchers were licking their wounds today after undergoing what must have been one of the worst pummelings at the hands of batsmen in the Class AA league's long history.

After the blasting was over Sunday, statisticians counted 109 hits in five games—or nearly 22 a game—including 13 home runs. The cannonading produced 73 runs.

The wildest contest saw Chattanooga overwhelm Shreveport, 18-7, and move into first place ahead of Birmingham which suffered an 8-4 loss to the Macon Peaches. Mobile whipped Atlanta 6-5 in 11 innings and Little Rock and Nashville traded victories. Little Rock taking the first game 10-8 in 11 innings and Nashville the second, 6-1.

Only two pitchers went the route—Macon's Jim Stump and Nashville right-hander Oscar Chinique who gave up nine hits in the seven-inning nightcap against Little Rock.

Charley Soraci of Macon and Wayne Graham of Chattanooga shared individual hitting honors. Each drove home five runs—Soraci with a homer and a single and Graham with a homer, two singles and a sacrifice fly.

Sam Snead Wins Another Tournament

By DICK LEONARD
Associated Press Sports Writer

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. — Life would begin at dawn for Sam Snead if he could just win the U.S. Open golf tournament.

The West Virginia Slammer, riding the crest of a two-tournament winning streak, stays around home this week to celebrate his 49th birthday on Saturday. Then he heads for San Juan, P.R., and the International Cup matches.

After that he will take a shot at the Open, being held next month at Oakland Hills in Detroit.

That was the beginning of his never-ending chase for the U.S. Open championship—the one major golf title which has eluded Snead.

His victory in the Tournament of Champions at Las Vegas earlier this month made him the oldest pro to ever win a major golf title.

His victory here Sunday in the 14th Sam Snead Festival marked his 109th tournament title.

Snead led all the way during the four-day, 72-hole tournament. He finished with a 266-14 under par—for his sixth Festival victory.

Detroit Holds Lead; Indians Go to Second

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cleveland took over undisputed possession of second place in the American League, 3½ games behind Detroit, by handing Minnesota a double shutout, 9-0 and 2-0 in Sunday's doubleheader.

Washington jumped from eighth to sixth place with a 6-2 and 7-2 sweep from Los Angeles. New York moved into third place, past Minnesota, dividing a doubleheader with Baltimore. The Yankees won the opener 4-2 and the Orioles the second game 3-2.

Detroit defeated Kansas City 5-3 in the first game of a scheduled doubleheader. The second game was postponed until tonight because of rain. Chicago's White Sox nipped Boston 6-5 in 10 innings of their first game. The Red Sox came back to win the nightcap 4-1 behind rookie Art Schwall, who was making his major league debut.

In the National League, Los Angeles defeated San Francisco 3-2 to move into a virtual tie with the Giants for first place. Pittsburgh outslugged Philadelphia 13-11. St. Louis whipped Chicago twice 6-3 and 3-0. Milwaukee and Cincinnati split. The Braves won the second game 3-2 after the Reds had taken the opener 6-5.

The five hits made by Minnesota were only two more than the fewest made by an American League club in a doubleheader. The Indians collected 28 in the twin bill, six by Johnny Temple, who took over the league's batting lead with .360. The only thing Minnesota fans had to cheer about was Lennie Green, who hit safely in each game to extend his hitting streak through 18 games.

Steve Boros, rookie third baseman, drove in four Detroit runs with a single, double and home run to help Larry win his seventh game in eight decisions. Kansas City southpaw Bud Daley lost his fifth.

Whitey Ford, helped by Roger Maris' fourth home run in as many games, and seventh of the season, won his fifth game for the Yankees in the opener against Baltimore. Steve Barber, Baltimore southpaw, helped win his own game with a two-run single in the seventh after Yankee receiver John Blanchard dropped Gene Stephens' two-out foul pop.

Art Schwall, a 23-year-old, 6-6 right-hander summoned from Seattle, made his major league debut with a winning one as he pitched the Red Sox to a 4-1 triumph over the White Sox. Gary Geiger's two-run homer and a couple of sparkling catches featured the Red Sox victory. The White Sox won the opener on Jim Landis' two-run homer in the 10th inning.

Washington jumped from eighth to sixth with its double triumph over Los Angeles. Willie Tasby's two-run double broke a 2-2 tie in the opener and Chuck Hinton drove in four runs in the second game with two singles and his first major league home run. Dale Long, Billy Klaus and Tasby homered for the Senators in the second game. Right-hander Bennie Daniels and left-hander Hal Woodeshick posted the victories.

Sanders Wins Prize Money at the Spa

NOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — "I'm coming back next year," said Doug Sanders after winning the $20,000 Hot Springs Open Golf Tournament Sunday, "but I hope you have the dogs and whisky boxes off the course."

With that remark he grinned and accepted a check for $2,800, raising his pro winnings to $31,795.56. It was his third tournament victory of the year and his second in a week. He took home $7,000 first money from the Fort Worth Colonial last Sunday.

Sanders, of Ojai, Calif., shot a 4-under-par 68 Sunday to finish at 273, 15 strokes under par. Jerry Steelsmith of Glendale, Calif., and Dave Itagan of Orlando, Fla., who played with Sanders in the final threesome tied for second place with 274s.

The winner was fired momentarily Saturday when a cocker spaniel, who was scratching fleas in a sandtrap, gave a "yip" and caused him to miss a putt. Sunday, Sanders' ball hit an empty whisky case on the 13th fairway and bounced behind a tree, causing him to take a bogey 6.
